Wildlife watching

Arpa Protected Landscape "ARPA" Environmental Foundation

Study Nature, Love Nature, Stay Close To Nature. It Will Never Fail You.

Nature is powerful. The source of inspiration for our activity is nature. To be closer to nature, you can use the tourist services offered by “Arpa” Environmental Foundation. Wildlife watching is both an art and adventure. It’s an art because it requires enthusiasm, love for all living creatures and a lot of patience. Wildlife watching exists in specially protected nature areas. Our skilled rangers can spot Bezoar goats in their natural habitat. Bezoar goats are currently listed in the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species and in the Red Book of RA as they are hunted by humans because of their long horns.

Using wildlife watching service, if you are successful, you will have the opportunity to see the Brown bears under certain safe conditions, it will even be a success if you have the opportunity to see at least one footprint of the Caucasian leopards, the “residents” of our landscape.
